Sudan Conflicts (1955 - )

Agreements relate to several distinct dyads, and also the negotiated independence of South Sudan, and subsequent internal conflict in South Sudan. Sudan-South Sudan. The long-standing conflict between the north and the south of the country dates back to colonial times, where the British introduced a so-called 'Southern Policy', severely hampering population movements between these big regions. Immediately after gaining independence in 1956, southern movements started to fight for independence; this fight became professionalised in 1983 with the foundation of the soon internationally supported Sudan People's Liberation Army (SPLA). When the Islamic Front government introduced strict sharia laws in the south after it took over power in 1988 the war intensified. A decade later, the military situation reached a stalemate, enabling internationally facilitated peace negotiations to begin in 1997. After more fighting, a final negotiation push began in 2002, leading to the signing of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) in January 2005.

Sudan-South Sudan post referendum. South Sudan became independent in July 2011; since then, relations between the two countries are complicated and violent conflict led by the SPLM (North) in the Sudanese Nuba mountains region has since intensified.

Darfur. Other long-standing violent conflicts are in the east and the west of the country. In the east, the Beja Congress, established in 1957, is the spearhead of a currently 'peaceful' opposition movement. In the west, the violent conflict in Darfur intensified in the early 2000s and rapidly gained international attention, even resulting in genocide charges against leading figures of the Sudanese government. The situation on the ground is complex, with over a dozen organisations (most notably the Sudanese Liberation Movement and the Justice and Equality Movement) fighting the Sudanese government and allied groups like the Janjaweed – although all parties have switched sides on numerous occasions. Several mediation attempts have not been successful, due to the shaky commitment of the Sudanese central government and the distrust among the armed opposition.

South Sudan - internal

In December 2013, after president Salva Kiir accused opposition leader Riek Machar of attempting a coup, violent conflict broke out between government forces of the SPLM/A and anti-governmental groups. In addition, several other political militias as well as communal militias have joined the conflict. In 2015 the Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in South Sudan (ARCSS) was signed. Due to unsuccessful implementation the agreement was revitalized in 2018. In September 2019, Kiir and Machar agreed to establish a power-sharing government after struggles on forming a unity transitional government.

4.3 Transit Fee

4.3.1 Whereas, during negotiations, the GoS had first indicated a transit fee of USD 6.00/ bbl for the foreign transporters of oil through its territory, the GoS has now set that fee at USD 4.00/bbl; and whereas the GoRSS initially indicated that a transit fee of USD 0.63/0.69/bbl would be appropriate but at the end of the negotiations in August 2012 had considered that it would be reasonable that the GoS grants free transit for all the oil produced in the RSS; neither Party has endorsed, or should be regarded as having endorsed, any of the fees quoted or positions taken by the other Party.

However, in view of the special relationship between the RSS and the RoS, the Parties have agreed that the transit fee for the GoRSS Oil Entitlement Volumes shall be United States on dollar (USD 1.00/bbl). This special fee shall not serve as a precedent, nor shall it have any implication for, or prejudice, any arrangements between either State and any third party. Accordingly, nothing in this paragraph, or in any other part of this Agreement, shall be understood to be the GoRSS's consent - express or implied - to the GoS levying of a transit fee of any value on entitlements other than those of the GoRSS. It is for the GoS to agree with foreign transporters on whatever transit fee it deems fit.

Page 8, 5 Payment Procedures

5.1. All payments from the GoRSS to the GoS for processing fees, transportation tariffs, transit fees and TFA transfers shall be based on the oil volumes redelivered to the GoRSS and lifted at the marine terminal on board vessels at Port Sudan as specified in the respective bills of lading.

Page 8, 5 Payment Procedures

5.2 The GoS shall issue two separate invoices, one for processing fees, transportation tariffs and transit fees, and another for TFA, each time the GoRSS Oil Entitlement Volumes have been finally redelivered and lifted at the marine terminal and a bill of lading has been issued. Payment shall be made by the GoRSS within forty (40) days from the date of the bill of lading.
