Zimbabwean Post-electoral Political Crisis (2008)

After removing the white minority-ruled ‘Rhodesia’ from the map and establishing the state of Zimbabwe in 1980, the Zimbabwe African National Union – Patriotic Front (ZANU-PF) took power. Its long-time leader, Robert Mugabe, acted as Prime Minister from 1980 to 1987, and then took over the Presidency. He centralised power and, throughout the 1990s, established an authoritarian state. After suffering a near defeat by the Movement for Democratic Change (MDC) in the 2008 elections, the ZANU-PF launched an intimidation campaign against the unarmed opposition, which led to numerous Human Rights violations, widespread torture and disappearances. Under strong international pressure Mugabe entered negotiations with the opposition, a Global Political Agreement was signed by him and the representatives of the two major wings of the MDC in September 2008.

there must be devolution of power and responsibilities to lower tiers of government in Zimbabwe.

Page 103, Chapter 14: Provincial and Local Government, Part 1: Preliminary, Article 264.

Devolution of governmental powers and responsibilities:

(1) Whenever appropriate, governmental powers and responsibilities must be devolved to provincial and metropolitan councils and local authorities which are competent to carry out those responsibilities efficiently and effectively.

(2) The objectives of the devolution of governmental powers and responsibilities to provincial and metropolitan councils and local authorities are—

(a) to give powers of local governance to the people and enhance their participation in the exercise of the powers of the State and in making decisions affecting them;

(b) to promote democratic, effective, transparent, accountable and coherent government in Zimbabwe as a whole;

(c) to preserve and foster the peace, national unity and indivisibility of Zimbabwe;

(d) to recognise the right of communities to manage their own affairs and to further their development;

(e) to ensure the equitable sharing of local and national resources; and

(f) to transfer responsibilities and resources from the national government in order to establish a sound financial base for each provincial and metropolitan council and local authority.

Page 103-104, Chapter 14: Provincial and Local Government, Part 1: Preliminary, Article

265. General principles of provincial and local government:

(1) Provincial and metropolitan councils and local authorities must, within their spheres

(a) ensure good governance by being effective, transparent, accountable and institutionally coherent;

(b) assume only those functions conferred on them by this Constitution or an Act of Parliament;

(c) exercise their functions in a manner that does not encroach on the geographical, functional or institutional integrity of another tier of government;

(d) co-operate with one another, in particular by—

(i) informing one another of, and consulting one another on, matters of common interest;

(ii) harmonising and co-ordinating their activities;

(e) preserve the peace, national unity and indivisibility of Zimbabwe;

(f) secure the public welfare; and

(g) ensure the fair and equitable representation of people within their areas of jurisdiction.

(2) All members of local authorities must be elected by registered voters within the areas for which the local authorities are established.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS

PART I.

APPLICATION AND OPERATION OF CHAPTER 4

44 Duty to respect fundamental human rights and freedoms

The State and every person, including juristic persons, and every institution and agency of the government at every level must respect, protect, promote and fulfil the rights and freedoms set out in this Chapter.

45 Application of Chapter 4

(1) This Chapter binds the State and all executive, legislative and judicial institutions and agencies of government at every level.

(2) This Chapter binds natural and juristic persons to the extent that it is applicable to them, taking into account the nature of the right or freedom concerned and any duty imposed by it.

(3) Juristic persons as well as natural persons are entitled to the rights and freedoms set out in this Chapter to the extent that those rights and freedoms can appropriately be extended to them.

46 Interpretation of Chapter 4

(1) When interpreting this Chapter, a court, tribunal, forum or body-

(a) must give full effect to the rights and freedoms enshrined in this Chapter;

(b) must promote the values and principles that underlie a democratic society based on openness, justice, human dignity, equality and freedom, and in particular, the values and principles set out in section 3;

(c) must take into account international law and all treaties and conventions to which Zimbabwe is a party;

(d) must pay due regard to all the provisions of this Constitution, in particular the principles and objectives set out in Chapter 2; and

(e) may consider relevant foreign law; in addition to considering all other relevant factors that are to be taken into account in the interpretation of a Constitution.

(2) When interpreting an enactment, and when developing the common law and customary law, every court, tribunal, forum or body must promote and be guided by the spirit and objectives of this Chapter.

47 Chapter 4 does not preclude existence of other rights

This Chapter does not preclude the existence of other rights and freedoms that may be recognised or conferred by law, to the extent that they are consistent with this Constitution.

1. Customary international law is part of the law of Zimbabwe, unless it is inconsistent with this Constitution or an Act of Parliament.
2. When interpreting legislation, every court and tribunal must adopt any reasonable interpretation of the legislation that is consistent with customary international law applicable in Zimbabwe, in preference to an alternative interpretation inconsistent with that law.

Page 125, Chapter 18: General and Supplementary Provisions, Part 2: General, Article 327. International conventions, treaties and agreements:

1. In this section--
 - "international organisation" means an organisation whose membership consists of two or more independent States or in which two or more independent States are represented;
 - "international treaty" means a convention, treaty, protocol or agreement between one or more foreign States or governments or international organisations.
2. An international treaty which has been concluded or executed by the President or under the President's authority--
 - a. does not bind Zimbabwe until it has been approved by Parliament; and
 - b. does not form part of the law of Zimbabwe unless it has been incorporated into the law through an Act of Parliament.
3. An agreement which is not an international treaty but which--
 - a. has been concluded or executed by the President or under the President's authority with one or more foreign organisations or entities; and
 - b. imposes fiscal obligations on Zimbabwe; does not bind Zimbabwe until it has been approved by Parliament.
4. An Act of Parliament may provide that subsections (2) and (3)--
 - a. do not apply to any particular international treaty or agreement or to any class of such treaties or agreements; or
 - b. apply with modifications in relation to any particular international treaty or agreement or to any class of such treaties or agreements.
5. Parliament may by resolution declare that any particular international treaty or class of international treaties does not require approval under subsection (2), but such a resolution does not apply to treaties whose application or operation requires--
 - a. the withdrawal or appropriation of funds from the Consolidated Revenue Fund; or
 - b. any modification of the law of Zimbabwe.
6. When interpreting legislation, every court and tribunal must adopt any reasonable interpretation of the legislation that is consistent with any international convention, treaty or agreement which is binding on Zimbabwe, in preference to an alternative interpretation inconsistent with that convention, treaty or agreement.

(a) to any person from the Consolidated Revenue Fund;

(b) in respect of a person’s service with an employer;

(c) in respect of a person’s ill-health or injury; or

(d) in respect of a person’s retirement through age or ill-health or any other reason; and includes a commutation of such a pension, annuity, gratuity or allowance and a refund of contributions paid towards such a pension, annuity, gratuity or allowance;

“property” means property of any description and any right or interest in property.

(2) Subject to section 72, every person has the right, in any part of Zimbabwe, to acquire, hold, occupy, use, transfer, hypothecate, lease or dispose of all forms of property, either individually or in association with others.

(3) Subject to this section and to section 72, no person may be compulsorily deprived of their property except where the following conditions are satisfied—

(a) the deprivation is in terms of a law of general application;

(b) the deprivation is necessary for any of the following reasons—

(i) in the interests of defence, public safety, public order, public morality, public health or town and country planning; or

(ii) in order to develop or use that or any other property for a purpose beneficial to the community;

(c) the law requires the acquiring authority—

(i) to give reasonable notice of the intention to acquire the property to everyone whose interest or right in the property would be affected by the acquisition;

(ii) to pay fair and adequate compensation for the acquisition before acquiring the property or within a reasonable time after the acquisition; and

(iii) if the acquisition is contested, to apply to a competent court before acquiring the property, or not later than thirty days after the acquisition, for an order confirming the acquisition;

(d) the law entitles any person whose property has been acquired to apply to a competent court for the prompt return of the property if the court does not confirm the acquisition; and

(e) the law entitles any claimant for compensation to apply to a competent court for the determination of— (i) the existence, nature and value of their interest in the property concerned;

(ii) the legality of the deprivation; and

(iii) the amount of compensation to which they are entitled; and to apply to the court for an order directing the prompt payment of any compensation.

(4) Where a person has a vested or contingent right to the payment of a pension benefit, a law which provides for the extinction or diminution of that right is regarded, for the purposes of subsection (3), as a law providing for the compulsory acquisition of property.

Page 26, Chapter 4: Declaration of Rights, Part 1: Application and Interpretation of Chapter 4, Article 46. Interpretation of Chapter:

(1) When interpreting this Chapter, a court, tribunal, forum or body—

(b) must promote the values and principles that underlie a democratic society based on openness, justice, human dignity, equality and freedom, and in particular, the values and principles set out in section 3;

Page 31, Chapter 4: Declaration of Rights, Part 2: Fundamental Human Rights and Freedom, Article 62. Access to information:

(4) Legislation must be enacted to give effect to this right, but may restrict access to information in the interests of defence, public security or professional confidentiality, to the extent that the restriction is fair, reasonable, necessary and justifiable in a democratic society based on openness, justice, human dignity, equality and freedom.

Page 51, Chapter 6: The Legislature, Part 2: Parliament, Article 119. Role of Parliament:

(1) Parliament must protect this Constitution and promote democratic governance in Zimbabwe.

Page 61, Chapter 6: The Legislature, Part 7: Procedure in Parliament, Article 141. Public access to and involvement in Parliament

Parliament must—

(c) conduct its business in a transparent manner and hold its sittings, and those of its committees, in public, though measures may be taken—

(iv) to provide for the searching of any person and, where appropriate, the refusal of entry to Parliament or the removal of any person from Parliament; but those measures must be fair, reasonable and justifiable in a democratic society based on openness, justice, human dignity, equality and freedom.

Page 70, Chapter 8: The Judiciary and Courts, Part 1: The Court System: Article 164. Independence of judiciary:

(2) The independence, impartiality and effectiveness of the courts are central to the rule of law and democratic governance, and therefore—

(a) neither the State nor any institution or agency of the government at any level, and no other person, may interfere with the functioning of the courts;

(b) the State, through legislative and other measures, must assist and protect the courts to ensure their independence, impartiality, dignity, accessibility and effectiveness and to

Page 103, Chapter 13, Basic rights of detainees

4. (1.) All detainees--

a. must be informed as soon as reasonably practicable, and in any case within seven days, of the reasons for their detention;

b. must be permitted without delay--

i. at their own expense, to choose and consult in private with a legal practitioner; or

ii. if they wish, to consult in private with a legal practitioner assigned to them by the State at State expense; and must be informed as soon as reasonably practicable of their rights under this paragraph; and

c. must be treated humanely and with respect for their inherent dignity as human beings.

(2.) Where this paragraph requires information to be given to a detainee--

a. the information must be given in a language that the detainee understands; and

b. if the detainee cannot read or write, any document embodying the information must be explained in such a way that he or she understands it.

Page 103, Chapter 13, Review of detainees' cases

5. (1.) Every detainee's case must be submitted to the review tribunal within ten days after his or her initial detention and the tribunal must be informed of the name of the detainee, the place where he or she is detained and the reasons for the detention.

(2.) Every detainee's case must be resubmitted to the review tribunal at intervals of thirty days from the date on which the case was last reviewed, or at shorter intervals if the tribunal so orders.

(3.) The review tribunal must proceed without delay to review all cases submitted to it.

(4.) At all hearings by the review tribunal, the detainees whose cases are being reviewed must be allowed to present their cases in person or, if they wish--

a. through legal practitioners assigned to them by the State at State expense; or

b. at their own expense, through legal practitioners of their choice.

(5.) The reference in subparagraph (1) to a ten-day period includes a reference to lesser periods of detention that amount to ten days, in the case of a detainee who is released within ten days after being initially detained and is then re-detained within ten days after that release.

Page 103, Chapter 13, Recommendations of review tribunal

6. After reviewing a detainee's case, the review tribunal must make written recommendations to the authority that ordered the detention as to whether or not the detainee should continue to be detained, and the authority must act in accordance with the tribunal's recommendation.

(1) Any of the following persons, namely—

- (a) any person acting in their own interests;
- (b) any person acting on behalf of another person who cannot act for themselves;
- (c) any person acting as a member, or in the interests, of a group or class of persons;
- (d) any person acting in the public interest;
- (e) any association acting in the interests of its members;

is entitled to approach a court, alleging that a fundamental right or freedom enshrined in this Chapter has been, is being or is likely to be infringed, and the court may grant appropriate relief, including a declaration of rights and an award of compensation.

(2) The fact that a person has contravened a law does not debar them from approaching a court for relief under subsection (1).

(3) The rules of every court must provide for the procedure to be followed in cases where relief is sought under subsection (1), and those rules must ensure that—

- (a) the right to approach the court under subsection (1) is fully facilitated;
- (b) formalities relating to the proceedings, including their commencement, are kept to a minimum;
- (c) the court, while observing the rules of natural justice, is not unreasonably restricted by procedural technicalities; and
- (d) a person with particular expertise may, with the leave of the court, appear as a friend of the court.

(4) The absence of rules referred to in subsection (3) does not limit the right to commence proceedings under subsection (1) and to have the case heard and determined by a court.

(1) The fundamental rights and freedoms set out in this Chapter must be exercised reasonably and with due regard for the rights and freedoms of other persons.

(2) The fundamental rights and freedoms set out in this Chapter may be limited only in terms of a law of general application and to the extent that the limitation is fair, reasonable, necessary and justifiable in a democratic society based on openness, justice, human dignity, equality and freedom, taking into account all relevant factors, including—

- (a) the nature of the right or freedom concerned;
- (b) the purpose of the limitation, in particular whether it is necessary in the interests of defence, public safety, public order, public morality, public health, regional or town planning or the general public interest;
- (c) the nature and extent of the limitation;
- (d) the need to ensure that the enjoyment of rights and freedoms by any person does not prejudice the rights and freedoms of others;
- (e) the relationship between the limitation and its purpose, in particular whether it imposes greater restrictions on the right or freedom concerned than are necessary to achieve its purpose; and
- (f) whether there are any less restrictive means of achieving the purpose of the limitation.

(3) No law may limit the following rights enshrined in this Chapter, and no person may violate them—

- (a) the right to life, except to the extent specified in section 48;
- (b) the right to human dignity;
- (c) the right not to be tortured or subjected to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment;

Page 49-50, Chapter 5: The Executive: Election of President, Part 4: Executive Functions of the President and Cabinet, Article 113. States of Public Emergency:

- (1) The President may by proclamation in the Gazette declare that a state of public emergency exists in the whole or any part of Zimbabwe.
- (2) A declaration of a state of public emergency ceases to have effect after fourteen days beginning with the day of publication of the proclamation in the Gazette unless, before the end of that period, the declaration is approved by at least two-thirds of the total membership of Parliament at a joint sitting of the Senate and the National Assembly.
- (3) If Parliament is dissolved during the period of fourteen days after a state of public emergency has been declared, the declaration ceases to have effect after twenty-one days, beginning with the day of publication of the proclamation in the Gazette, unless within that period the declaration is approved by a majority of all the Members of the new Parliament at a joint sitting of the Senate and the National Assembly.
- (4) A declaration of a state of public emergency which has been approved under subsection (2) or (3) remains in effect for three months from the date on which the proclamation was published in the Gazette unless it has earlier been revoked or ceased to have effect under this section.
- (5) If a declaration of a state of public emergency is not approved after consideration by Parliament, or if for any reason it is not considered by Parliament within the period specified in this section, the President must, within seven days, by proclamation in the Gazette, revoke the declaration.
- (6) If, by a resolution passed by a majority of the members present at a joint sitting of the Senate and the National Assembly, Parliament resolves that a declaration of a state of public emergency—
 - (a) should be continued for a further period not exceeding three months, the President must without delay, by proclamation in the Gazette, extend the declaration for that further period;
 - (b) should be revoked or that it should apply within a smaller area, the President must without delay, by proclamation in the Gazette, revoke the declaration or provide that the declaration relates to that smaller area.
- (7) The Constitutional Court, on the application of any interested person, may determine the validity of—
 - (a) a declaration of a state of public emergency;
 - (b) any extension of a declaration of a state of public emergency.
