Colombian Conflict (1964 -)

The Colombian conflict is really a set of conflicts and the peace agreements reflect both different processes relating to different conflict groups and dyads, and processes taking place at different times in a complex peace process history. The Colombian civil war has its roots in the late 1940s and the violent infighting between liberal and the conservative factions. Emerging from the liberal tradition with a thorough grounding in nationalist communist ideology, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia—People's Army (FARC) began its armed insurrection against the Colombian government in 1964. Other left-wing guerrillas emerged as well, most notably the socialist/populist M-19, which would later be integrated into the formal political system in the peace process of 1990s; the National Liberation Army (ELN), which has strong roots in liberation theology, and the Maoist Ejército Popular de Liberación (EPL) (also part of the 1990 process, less successfully). Several stages of peace processes were undertaken by the various sides, which were further complicated by the emergence of right-wing paramilitary 'self-defence' forces. The peace agreement between the Colombian government under President Uribe and the main alliance of the paramilitary groups, the United Self-Defence Forces of Colombia (AUC), concluded in 2005 and is still heavily disputed as several remnants are still active, but now subsumed under the heading 'Bacrim' (Bandas criminales). In addition, FARC and ELN maintain a military presence, but both demonstrate a strong interest in completing successful peace negotiations with the government, with the most recent agreements being between FARC and the Government.

To ensure that both the dissemination of the peace process with EPL and projects for the civil and productive reinsertion of its forces have the necessary support from the public and civil and business organisations, and that tasks to be carried out for these purposes have the support of the sectional governments, the council will promote the creation of operational committees through the sectional governments where the various EPL camps are located and in the departments of Atlántico, Caldas, Guajira, Sucre, Santander, Putumayo and the Mayor's Office of Bogotá. The committees will comprise one official from the respective sectional government, the mayor or representative, a local official from the National Restoration Plan and a member of EPL. They will be responsible for the initiative for public communication and participation in the peace process.

To ensure an international commission oversees, supervises and certifies compliance with the agreements and commitments made by the parties in this final demobilisation agreement, EPL and the national government agree to invite the Spanish Socialist Workers' Party (Partido Socialista Obrero Español, PSOE) and Socialist International to appoint two commissions to oversee compliance with the agreed terms for as long as necessary for their mission. This will entail verification of full and final disarmament by EPL forces, assessment of EPL civil reinsertion tasks, political guarantees made to EPL, agreements regarding human rights and the implementation of the development plans to which the national government commits as part of this agreement.
To ensure the presence of non-governmental institutions or international democratic figures in the ceremony for the surrender of arms, it is agreed that the national government and EPL will send invitations to the United Nations, Amnesty International and the church, in addition to certain international figures.

To contribute to raising awareness of the peace process and during the demobilisation of the EPL armed forces, the government will fund the opening of Houses of Democracy in various cities throughout the country. It will provide COP 12 million, to be transferred to the Progresar foundation, legally domiciled in Bogota. The council undertakes to make arrangements with the relevant mayors to ensure they authorise the opening of these sites, which will also aim to promote the expansion of democracy in Colombia.

The insertion of EPL in the country's political, economic and social life constitutes an act of reconciliation to show the democratic benefits of moving toward a fairer and more equal society. The government and EPL agree that this process must stimulate a strong belief among the public that political tolerance is the best means to achieve the expansion and preservation of democracy.

SECURITY PLAN

The security service and teams provided by the government as part of this agreement will be provided on a temporary basis in line with the specific requirements and priorities for the protection of EPL veterans and leaders, based on a specific and periodic joint assessment of risks. In principle, the security plan agreement will run for six months from the date of the surrender of arms, after which the plan will be reviewed as a whole by the parties. Notwithstanding, at least once a month, there will be a joint periodic review to make adjustments based on experience, in line with the organisation discussed below.

Three security levels will be established for the leaders with the greatest exposure to risks:

☞ LEVEL ONE (highest priority): Protection of four highest risk national leaders, who will have four teams, each comprising two vehicles, with a driver and bodyguard in the main vehicle, and a driver and bodyguard in the accompanying vehicle.

☞ LEVEL TWO: Protection of nine high-risk national leaders and veterans, who will be protected by a security team comprising a vehicle, with driver and bodyguard, and the corresponding equipment.

☞ LEVEL THREE: Protection of around 28 veteran regional leaders, who, on account of the nature of the conflict prior to this agreement, are exposed to foreseeable risks. A total of 15 cars, each with a driver and bodyguard, will be allocated for the security of this group. The teams will be distributed throughout the coffee axis, Medellín, Valle, Apartadó, Córdoba, Barranquilla, Cartagena, Guajira, Los Santanderes and Bogotá, in line with requirements. For this level, the security equipment will be shared by various leaders, for which EPL undertakes to agree suitable scheduling and coordination.

The Commission to Overcome Violence will have the following functions:

- a. Undertake diagnostics and make recommendations regarding violence and the violation of human rights in each of the regions, as defined by the Bilateral Commission on Human Rights and Factors of Violence, paying particular attention to phenomena such as paramilitary activity and drug trafficking.
- b. Contribute to organising regional fora to overcome violence, the objective of which will be to allow the participation of the community and its organisations in the analysis of violence and the development of strategies to eradicate this phenomenon and consolidate an atmosphere of democratic coexistence in the various regions.
- c. Submit a report to the Colombian government summarising the results of its work, setting out general policy recommendations and specific cases to be addressed.

For this purpose, extraordinary sessions of the restoration councils will take place in the municipalities that form part of the National Restoration Plan (Plan Nacional de Rehabilitación, PNR), which, by definition constitute a space to promote community participation. In partnership with a government representative, EPL will participate in these councils and explain the scopes of the proposal.

c. In municipalities not covered by the PNR, municipal peace councils will be created as a mechanism for community participation and decision-making. They will be chaired by the municipal mayor and their structure and procedure will be similar to the restoration councils. In partnership with a government representative, EPL will also participate in these councils and explain the scopes of the proposals.

Prisoner release Page 5, Legal Guarentees,
As a result of the negotiated peace process, the resulting surrender of arms and the decision by EPL forces to reintegrate into civil life and fully participate in national democracy, the government will authorise the termination of punishments and criminal proceedings as set out in Decree 213, 22 January 1991, for all members of EPL, provided these are political offences or appurtenances, and in line with the stipulations and requirements set out in the decree. For this purpose, before 20th of this month, EPL must provide the full list of all the military forces in its organisation, as fully identified as possible. For people deprived of liberty, it must provide the place of imprisonment and the authority responsible for the case.

A national monitoring body will be established to verify compliance with the commitments in the memorandum of commitment signed by the parties on 10 January 1991, comprising one representative from the Episcopal Conference, a member of the international monitoring body and a national politician to be agreed by the parties. The monitoring body will visit the camps where EPL forces are present on 18 and 26 of February and will cease to function on the date arms are surrendered.

To ensure an international commission oversees, supervises and certifies compliance with the agreements and commitments made by the parties in this final demobilisation agreement, EPL and the national government agree to invite the Spanish Socialist Workers' Party (Partido Socialista Obrero Español, PSOE) and Socialist International to appoint two commissions to oversee compliance with the agreed terms for as long as necessary for their mission. This will entail verification of full and final disarmament by EPL forces, assessment of EPL civil reinsertion tasks, political guarantees made to EPL, agreements regarding human rights and the implementation of the development plans to which the national government commits as part of this agreement.

To ensure the presence of non-governmental institutions or international democratic figures in the ceremony for the surrender of arms, it is agreed that the national government and EPL will send invitations to the United Nations, Amnesty International and the church, in addition to certain international figures.

Page 14, Procedure for the Surrender of Arms,

To ensure the surrender of arms on 1 March as established in this agreement, EPL must submit a full list of war materials and items for the exclusive use of the armed forces that are in its power by 20 February. The list of arms will detail their type, brand, calibre and serial number. The list of explosives will detail their type and quantity.

It is agreed that items for the exclusive use of the armed forces will be unused and explosives will be detonated in the respective camps. At each camp, arms will be surrendered to the international monitoring commission, which will be responsible for their custody until their destruction.

The final act of surrender will take place on 1 March at the sites to be agreed between the parties.

The list of arms, explosives, items for the exclusive use of the armed forces and other war materials in the possession of EPL will be surrendered to a representative of the international monitoring commission, who will be responsible for their transfer to the peace council.

On 1 March, the government will issue safe-conducts to members of EPL for offences covered by Decree 213, 22 January 1991, based on the list submitted by the organisation.
