Congo Civil Wars (1996 - )

The overthrow of the long-term dictator Mobutu Sese Seko by a rebel Tutsi army backed by Uganda and Rwanda in 1997 acted as a catalyst for a war with regional dimensions, mainly fought in the eastern Kivu provinces. The conflict escalated in 1998, when President Laurent Kabila, then backed by Zimbabwean and Angolan troops, ordered Rwanda and Uganda to leave. After Kabila's assassination in 2001, his son Joseph took over the presidency and won in the 2006 democratic elections.

In the eastern provinces, Tutsi-led militias, mainly organised in the National Congress for the Defense of the People (CNDP), fought the remnants of the Rwandan Hutu force FDLR, with further involvement of Rwandan and Ugandan troops. Other regionally operating militia groups, like the Lord's Resistance Army from Northern Uganda, the so-called Mai Mai groups or short-lived guerrilla outfits like the March 23 Movement (M23) further contributed, and still contribute, to the complexity of the situation in eastern DRC.

Pages 4-5, Section III: Institutions and Their Functioning During the Pre-election and Election Periods

III.1 Principles of governance

III.1.1 As part of their constitutional and legal prerogatives, the most important duties of the country's national and provincial institutions entail:

- ensuring the continuity of the government;
- organizing within the agreed-to time period presidential elections, national and provincial legislative elections, senate elections and the elections of the governors and vice governors of the provinces.

III.1.2 The deadline for completing the pre-election and election procedures in accordance with the agreed-to sequence is 12 months as of the signature of this Agreement.

III.2 Institutions with an electoral mandate

III.2.1 President of the Republic

The stakeholders agree to abide by the Constitution of February 18, 2006, as revised in 2011, particularly the following provisions:

- Article 70(1), which states: "The President of the Republic is elected by universal, direct suffrage for a five-year term that may be renewed only once." It follows that any president who has served the second and last term may not seek a third term.
- The provisions of article 70(2), which state: "At the end of his term, the President of the Republic remains in office until the actual installation of the newly elected President." At the discretion of the Front for the Respect of the Constitution, it follows that even though he is at the end of his term, the President of the Republic shall remain in office until his elected successor is actually installed.

III.2.2 The National Assembly, Senate and Provincial Assemblies

Given that the terms of the provincial deputies and those of the senators ended in 2012, and that the term of the national deputies expires in February 2017, the stakeholders agree that:

a. In accordance with articles 103(2), 105(2) and 197(6) of the Constitution, the national deputies, senators and provincial deputies in office remain in office until the actual installation of new corresponding legislative and deliberative assemblies chosen in the next elections to be held in accordance with the agreed-to schedule.

b. Depending on the situation and in addition to their standard constitutional assignments, the National Assembly, Senate and provincial assemblies shall have as priority legislative agendas the full set of legislative regulations and measures to defuse political tensions.

c. The stakeholders agree that the elected governors and vice governors remain in office in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution.

III.2.2 The National Assembly, Senate and Provincial Assemblies

Pages 6-9, Section IV: The Electoral Processes

IV.1 The stakeholders agree to a complete overhaul of the election roster and a bimonthly assessment of current voter registration procedures.

IV.2 The stakeholders agree to hold elections in a single presidential and national and provincial legislative sequence no later than December 2017.

IV.3 The stakeholders agree that CENI shall keep the National Assembly, National Council for Overseeing the Agreement and the other stakeholders in the electoral process duly informed of the time chart that will take into account the following pre-election and election procedures:

- Completion of the creation of the consolidated election roster;
- Adoption of the law on the distribution of seats by electoral district and of the election law, and their enactment by the Head of State;
- Notice of elections by CENI;
- Organization of presidential and national and provincial legislative elections in a single sequence;
- Swearing-in and installation of the new President-elect of the Republic;
- Senate elections, elections of provincial governors and vice governors.

Local, town and city elections shall be held in 2018.

The stakeholders are thus requesting that CENI and the Government of the Republic take all the necessary measures for this purpose.

The stakeholders request that the Minister of the Interior revoke his decree no. 19/2015 of March 11, 2015, registering a political party called Mouvement de Libération du Congo Libéral (MLC/L).

The stakeholders also request that the Minister of the Interior revoke his decree no. 25/CAB/VPM/MININTER SEC/EB/001/2016 of January 23, 2016, registering a political party called Mouvement Social pour le Renouveau (MSR).

IV.4 Regarding the funding of elections and without affecting articles 6 and 52 of CENI's fundamental law, the stakeholders:

- recommend that the Government:
  - o gather the internal and external resources required for the election budget and scrupulously abide by the disbursement plan agreed to with CENI, in accordance with the operational implementation plan;
  - o set up a quarterly allowance for the benefit of CENI in accordance with its disbursement plan to fund the entire electoral process, including the protection of the process;
  - o provide all the resources needed to fund the elections;
  - o explore the processes and methods of rationalization of the electoral system in order to reduce the excessive election costs.

Encourage the International Community to support and help CENI logistically, financially and technically in order to properly carry out the electoral procedures.

Urge Parliament to conduct a quarterly audit on the use of the budgetary resources provided to CENI.

Require and diligently carry out an external audit on the management of CENI.

Require that CENI be transparent in the execution of contracts and encourage it to

Constitution

Governance→Constitution→Constitution affirmation/renewal

Page 3, Section II: Respect for the Constitution

The fundamental principles enacted by the stakeholders in their understanding of “respect for the Constitution” may essentially be summarized as follows:

II.1 The stakeholders undertake to respect the Constitution of February 18, 2006, as amended in 2011, and the laws of the Republic; and to organize presidential elections, national and provincial legislative elections and local elections in accordance with said Constitution. Notwithstanding the provisions of article 5(1), they agree not to undertake or support any initiative to revise or change the Constitution.

II.2 Regarding concerns about the third term for Joseph Kabila, President of the Republic, the stakeholders note the formal affirmation he made in the following terms before the Parliament sitting in Congress on November 15, 2016: “To everyone who seems to be concerned day in and day out about my political future, I would like to say—without neglecting to thank them—that the DRC is a constitutional democracy. All relevant issues about the fate of institutions and their leaders are adequately resolved by the Constitution.” Therefore, having completed two terms, he may not seek a third.

II.3 The parties formally agree to respect the institutions and laws of the Republic, the Rule of Law, Human Rights, fundamental collective and individual freedoms, the separation of powers guaranteed by the Constitution and the right of opposition parties to exist and engage in their political activities.

II.4 The parties renew their formal commitment to promote the independence of the judiciary; national cohesion; civil peace and democratic values, specifically, the democratic transfer of power resulting from credible, free, transparent and peaceful elections; national solidarity; political tolerance; the notion of compromise through dialogue; the equality of rights and opportunities; good governance; and accountability of leaders.

II.5 The parties agree to carry out in good faith this compromise and the recommendations made by the National Council for Overseeing the Electoral Agreement and Process (CNSA).

Page 11, Section V: Easing of Political Tensions

V.1 The stakeholders in this Agreement duly note the establishment of a Commission of Chief Justices for a meticulous, individualized examination of the cases of political prisoners and prisoners of conscience, the beneficiaries of the most recent amnesty law who nonetheless have not yet been released, and the cases of political exiles and refugees appearing on the attached list.

The parties have noted with satisfaction that the cases of Messrs Antipas Mbusa Nyamwisi, Roger Lumbala, Floribert Anzuluni and Moïse Moni Dela have already been processed by the aforementioned commission, which has already ruled to halt proceedings for the first three and to free the last.

The stakeholders request that the Commission of Chief Justices outright release Messrs Bagayamukwe and Mbonekuba as they have already been pardoned regarding the reasons for their respective judgments of culpability.

Concerning the case of Eugene Diomi Ndongala, the stakeholders request that CENCO take action to achieve a suitable, satisfactory solution.

The stakeholders request that the Commission of Chief Justices postpone ruling on the cases of Messrs Moïse Katumbi and Jean-Claude Muyambo, which they state are entrusted to CENCO as part of the continuation of its good offices, in order to take steps and contact the relevant authorities so as to achieve a suitable, satisfactory solution.

In addition, there are the political figures prosecuted after the September 19, 2016, demonstrations and the youths from Lucha and Filimbi who were arrested on the day the efforts under the auspices of CENCO started, and all the people who were arrested and/or prosecuted around the country during the events of September 19 and December 19 and 20, 2016.

The stakeholders agree to stop unjustified legal proceedings due to tax harassment against some members of the Opposition.

In the greater national interest, the stakeholders are tasking CENCO with continuing its good offices with regard to all the relevant authorities for the follow-up on and actual resolution of remaining illustrative cases, namely, those of Moïse Katumbi and Jean-Claude Muyambo, in order for them to regain their freedom.

Page 8-9, 5. For MONUSCO
5.For MONUSCO:

- a. Support the Government in strengthening the abilities of the elements that are trained to provide protection;
- b. Give CENI logistical and technical assistance in order to properly carry out the electoral procedures;
- c. Ensure the implementation of the other relevant mechanisms of UN Security Council Resolution 2277.

Page 10, IV.8.2 Recommendations
To resolve these problems and ensure the security of the citizens, the parties encourage the adoption of the following suitable measures: [...]

- m) Strengthen cooperation between MONUSCO and the National Security Forces in order to ensure the population's security and protection;

Enforcement mechanism

Page 13, V1.2.3 Assignments

The stakeholders agree that the CNSA's mission will be to ensure compliance with the political Agreement by all the leaders of the Institutions, and to provide oversight and assess its implementation in order to guarantee the organization of credible, transparent and peaceful elections.

For that purpose, it will need to:

- Oversee the time chart of the implementation of the Agreement;
- Conduct regular assessments of the electoral process once every two months with CENI and the Government;
- Communicate regularly on the progress of the implementation of the Agreement;
- Formulate recommendations for Parliament, the Government and CENI for the proper enforcement of the Agreement;
- Ensure the resolution of possible divergences that arise from the interpretation of the Agreement between the stakeholders and reconcile their points of view in this regard;
- Consult together with the Government and CENI in order to align their outlooks on the success of the electoral process;
- Develop its by-laws subject to their compliance with the Constitution;
- Based on consensus, assess the time needed to finalize the aforementioned elections with the government and CENI.

A fundamental law shall be adopted by Parliament in order to establish the National Council for Overseeing the Agreement as an institution.
