Colombian Conflict (1964 -)

The Colombian conflict is really a set of conflicts and the peace agreements reflect both different processes relating to different conflict groups and dyads, and processes taking place at different times in a complex peace process history. The Colombian civil war has its roots in the late 1940s and the violent infighting between liberal and the conservative factions. Emerging from the liberal tradition with a thorough grounding in nationalist communist ideology, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia—People's Army (FARC) began its armed insurrection against the Colombian government in 1964. Other left-wing guerrillas emerged as well, most notably the socialist/populist M-19, which would later be integrated into the formal political system in the peace process of 1990s; the National Liberation Army (ELN), which has strong roots in liberation theology, and the Maoist Ejército Popular de Liberación (EPL) (also part of the 1990 process, less successfully). Several stages of peace processes were undertaken by the various sides, which were further complicated by the emergence of right-wing paramilitary 'self-defence' forces. The peace agreement between the Colombian government under President Uribe and the main alliance of the paramilitary groups, the United Self-Defence Forces of Colombia (AUC), concluded in 2005 and is still heavily disputed as several remnants are still active, but now subsumed under the heading 'Bacrim' (Bandas criminales). In addition, FARC and ELN maintain a military presence, but both demonstrate a strong interest in completing successful peace negotiations with the government, with the most recent agreements being between FARC and the Government.

Description

This fourth session of peace dialogues between the Colombian Government and the National Coordinator Bolivarian Army (CNEB) took place in La Hormiga, Putumayo, April 7-10, 2025. The agreement achieves three things: First, commitment to pilot programs for voluntary substitution of 30,000 hectares of coca cultivation (15,000 hectares each in Nariño and Putumayo departments) with community involvement and territorial transformations. Second, CNEB ratifies its commitment to respect international humanitarian law including not recruiting persons under 18, not using anti-personnel mines, respecting civilian population and property, and establishes a Human Rights and IHL Subcommission to facilitate safe return of displaced families from Jardines de Sucumbíos. Third, the delegations agreed to define a roadmap and timeline for a final peace agreement, establishing three new subcommissions on victims, political participation, and implementation/verification, building on previous subcommissions on justice, security, and territorial transformations.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON TERRITORIAL TRANSFORMATIONS OF THE PEACE DIALOGUE TABLE BETWEEN THE NATIONAL COORDINATION OF THE BOLIVARIAN ARMY AND THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT, ON THE REPLACEMENT OF ILLEGAL CROPS AND TERRITORIAL TRANSFORMATIONS.

At the fourth session of the Peace Dialogue Table, the subcommittee on territorial transformations, in accordance with point 1 of the Agenda on territorial transformations, proposes as a goal for the pilot project for the voluntary and concerted substitution of coca leaf crops, to be developed with the communities, 15,000 hectares in Putumayo and 15,000 hectares in Nariño, in two phases as follows:

In relation to the department of Putumayo, initially in the municipality of Valle del Guamuez and others where a meeting with the communities will be held on dates to be determined, to identify territorial and social needs, under the leadership of the Directorate for the Substitution of Illicit Crops, the Peace Commission and the Sub-Commission for Territorial Transformations.

...

In San Andrés de Tumaco and Roberto Payán, Nariño, the areas or polygons to be intervened within the substitution programme with a differential approach will be defined taking into account the diagnostic and micro-targeting exercises led by the DSCI and the communities socialised at the round table.

...

As a result of meetings with the communities to be defined, technical community roundtables will be held, in which the Sub-Commission on Transformations will participate.

As a result of meetings with the communities to be defined, technical community roundtables will be held, in which the Transformation Subcommittee will participate, in order to provide follow-up with the territorial authorities and elected community leaders.

It is directly suggested that the Government evaluate the following points:

...

3. The intervention of the polygons must be agreed upon with the communities.
4. Gradual and collective voluntary substitution with the communities must prevail.
