Ownership

Copyright and database right in the database is owned by the University of Edinburgh.

Funding

The current database is an output of the Political Settlements Research Programme (PSRP) www.politicalsettlements.org, funded by the Department of International Development (DFID, UK Aid). It has also received some funding from UN Women, to feed into the Global Study and UN Secretary General's Report on the fifteen-year review of UNSCR 1325, and from funding from the College of Arts and Humanities, Knowledge Transfer Fund, of the University of Edinburgh.

The pilot phases of the project were funded at different times by: the Nuffield Foundation and the Arts and Humanities Research Board of the British Academy.

Research

The database has been conceived of and designed by Professor Christine Bell.

The permanent researchers and peace agreement analysts responsible for the research on a daily basis are: Sanja Badanjak, Juline Beaujouan, Tim Epple, Kevin McNicholl, Kathryn Nash, Robert Wilson, and Laura Wise.

The current phase of the database benefited from coding by other coders, some former members of the team - Robert Forster, Astrid Jamar, Sean Molloy, Rachel Anderson - as well as former project associates: Celia Davies, Meg King, Laura Martin, Sissela Matzner, Laura Murdoch, Anna Ross, Jenna Sapiano, and Susan Thomson. Fiona Knaussel updated PA-X Women, Girls, and Gender in June 2020.

The descriptions of conflict have been updated by Hannah Den Boer, Gulay Firatli, and Fiona Knaussel.

Nascent versions of the project benefited from research by Jonathon Doak, Johanna Keenan and Catherine O'Rourke. Catherine O'Rourke undertook the bulk of the coding for an earlier incarnation of a similar database which informed the development of the current database, still available at: <http://www.peaceagreements.ulster.ac.uk/>.

Additionally, coding analysis was contributed by University of Edinburgh students on workbased and summer placements: Jack Barton, Lewis Dunne, Lauren Donnelly, Helia Farahnoosh, Alejandro Fernandes Jullian, Kerstin Mayr, Lauren Mizen, Kalina Peresterova, Vanessa Utley and Matthew Wilmore. Sahla Aroussi, Cindy Daase, Jan Pospisil and Alex Schwartz have an advisory role on the PA-X project.

PA-X Local has been developed, designed, and coded by: Christine Bell, Monalisa Adhikari, Sanja Badanjak, Juline Beaujouan, Margherita Distrotti, Tim Epple, Robert Forster, Robert

Wilson, and Laura Wise. We are hugely grateful to all those involved in or researching local peace processes who sent us peace agreement texts and expert advice on the inclusion of particular agreements. Jan Pospisil has an advisory role on the PA-X Local project. We are especially thankful for discussions with researchers from the LSE Conflict Research Programme, and attendees at the two PSRP 'Joint Analysis Workshops' held in London and Nairobi in 2019 that have helped us to advance our thinking on local peace agreements.

The work of the PA-X team is supported by the PSRP Programme Manager, Harriet Cornell, the PSRP Communications Officer, Allyson Doby, and the professional services staff at the University of Edinburgh's Law School.

Website and database maintenance

The programming technology behind the database and the website has been produced by the University of Edinburgh Information Services, John Allison and Bill Lee in particular. For more, see <https://www.ed.ac.uk/information-services>.

Visualizing peace and Yemen timeline

The visualizations of PA-X data were produced by Tobias Kauer (hierarchies and messy timelines), Sarah Schöttler, Lucy Havens, and Mengting Bao (interactive map). The Yemen Timeline was produced by Tobias Kauer and supported by Robert Wilson; the Yemen map was created by Sarah Schöttler.
