Page 4, TITLE I. GENERAL PROVISIONS, CHAPTER I. BASIC PRINCIPLES CONSTITUTING A POLITICAL ETHIC, Article 3:

Political consensus is a determining factor for the re-establishment of peace, security, trust and stability in the country.

It is embodied by the Framework for Concerted Action that brings together the political parties and the associations of civil society under the auspices of the Government.

Page 4, TITLE I. GENERAL PROVISIONS, CHAPTER II. DEFINITION, Article 4:

The Convention on Governance is an agreement concluded between the registered political parties with a view to the establishment of institutions based on "consensus", the restoration of peace, security and trust, the emergence of a State based on the rule of law and the economic recovery of the country.

Page 5, TITLE I. GENERAL PROVISIONS, CHAPTER II. DEFINITION, Article 6:

The Convention defines the tasks entrusted to the President of the Republic and the Government chosen on the basis of consensus. It governs the functioning of the institutions established on the basis of consensus and sets forth the guidelines for the smooth operation of the State. Pending its revision, the Constitution of the Republic shall continue to apply to the extent that it is not inconsistent with the provisions of this Convention.

Page 5-6, TITLE II. TASKS ENTRUSTED TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC AND TO THE GOVERNMENT, Article 9:

The parties signatory to this Convention entrust the President of the Republic and the Government chosen on the basis of consensus with the implementation of tasks designed to achieve the following broad purposes:

- The country's return to peace and security;
- The disarmament of civilian population groups and the dismantling of militias;
- The establishment of a National Security Council that is well-balanced and effective;
- The reintegration of displaced persons and the repatriation and resettlement of refugees in conditions of optimum security;
- The organization of a substantive national debate on the country's major problems, with a view to the adoption of a National Covenant for Peaceful Coexistence between the constituent parts of the nation and an appropriate constitution;
- Constitutional reforms;
- Education of the inhabitants, especially young people, for peace, respect for life, tolerance and other democratic values;
- Support for production activities in all sectors of the national economy;
- Reconstruction of infrastructures and revival of the national economy;
- Reorganization of public financial management and protection of the nation's assets;
- Pursuit of national and international investigations relating to events since October 1993;
- Guaranteeing the independence of the judiciary and promoting the proper administration of justice;
- Guaranteeing and promoting fundamental freedoms of the human person, including the freedoms of expression and association and free enterprise;
- Study of the question of the Burundi diaspora.

Page 7, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 16:

The National Security Council shall review acts of an important political nature proposed by the President of the Republic, in particular:

- Where exceptional circumstances lead to a declaration of war or to the signing of a truce;
- Before the declaration of a state of emergency where the institutions of the Republic or the fulfilment of its international commitments are under serious and immediate threat and where the normal functioning of its institutions is disrupted;

- In case of recourse to foreign mediation and/or military intervention;
- The appointment of senior military and civilian officials;
- The promulgation of laws;
- The holding of a referendum;
- Revision of the Constitution.

The National Security Council shall also, whenever necessary, serve as mediator between the various State institutions.

Page 7, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 17: The National Security Council shall comprise:

- The President of the Republic;
- The Prime Minister;
- The Minister for Foreign Affairs and Cooperation;
- The Minister of the Interior and Public Security;
- The Minister of Defence;
- A representative of the Partis des Forces de changement démocratique;
- A representative of the opposition parties;
- A representative of the National Unity Council;
- A representative of civil society;
- The permanent secretary, who shall be from a political grouping different from that of the President of the Republic.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 18:

The President of the Republic and the Prime Minister shall be ex officio members of the National Security Council.

The other members shall be appointed by the President of the Republic on the recommendation of the political parties, after consultations with representatives of civil society. Their term of office shall be the same as the period covered by the present Convention.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 19:

The members of the National Security Council shall meet as often as the situation requires and at least once a month; the meetings shall be convoked by the President of the Republic.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 20:

The President of the Republic shall convoke the National Security Council if requested to do so by at least two of its members.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 21:

Meetings of the National Security Council shall be chaired by the President of the Republic or, in his absence, by the Prime Minister. Decisions of the National Security Council shall be by a three-fourths majority. In the absence of the President of the Republic and of the Prime Minister, meetings shall be chaired by the oldest member of the Council.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 22:

The National Security Council may invite to its meetings any person whose opinion it considers must be taken into account.

Page 8, CHAPTER II. THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL, Article 23:

Within thirty days of the signing of this Convention, an organizational law shall be enacted to define the tasks and procedures of the National Page Security Council.

Page 8, TITLE III. INSTITUTIONS, CHAPTER III. THE PRIME MINISTER, Article 24:

The Prime Minister must be a person who inspires confidence and unity, and must be from a different political grouping from that of the President of the Republic. He must not have been involved, whether directly or indirectly, in any of the tragic events that have occurred since independence, in particular the coup d'état and the assassination of the President of the Republic on 21 October 1993, in what the political partners have agreed to call genocide, without prejudice to the findings of the independent national and international investigations, in the destruction of property, in the formation of militias or in the distribution and illegal use of arms.

Page 8, TITLE III. INSTITUTIONS, CHAPTER III. THE PRIME MINISTER, Article 25:

The Prime Minister shall be appointed by the President of the Republic on the express recommendation of one or more interested political groupings and his appointment shall be the subject of consultations with and the common agreement of the other political grouping and civil society.

The Prime Minister shall coordinate all Government activities. He shall countersign all legislative, regulatory and administrative acts of the President of the Republic, with the exception of those adopted pursuant to article 72, paragraph 1, of the Constitution, and the appointment of the members of the Cabinet of the President of the Republic.

Page 9, TITLE III. INSTITUTIONS, CHAPTER IV. THE GOVERNMENT, Article 28:

The Government shall be appointed by the President of the Republic on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, after consultations with regard to its structure and composition with the political parties that are signatories to this Convention. Recommendations shall be for one candidate only; where necessary, alternative candidates may be proposed successively.

Page 9, TITLE III. INSTITUTIONS, CHAPTER IV. THE GOVERNMENT, Article 29:

No one may enter or remain in the Government if such person has been directly or indirectly involved in the tragic events that have occurred since independence, in particular the coup d'état and the assassination of the President of the Republic on 21 October 1993, in what the political partners have agreed to call genocide, without prejudice to the findings of the independent national and international investigations, in the destruction of property, in the formation of militias or in the distribution and illegal use of arms.

Page 9, TITLE III. INSTITUTIONS, CHAPTER IV. THE GOVERNMENT, Article 30:

Where, for any reason whatsoever, a minister leaves the Government, he shall be replaced by a person from his own political formation.

A Minister may leave the Government on the initiative of the President of the Republic and/or the Prime Minister.

The President of the Republic and/or the Prime Minister may request the resignation of any member of Government who does not conform to the spirit and the letter of this Convention or who jeopardizes the functioning of the Government.

The Party with which a member of Government is affiliated may, on grounds deemed serious by the Conciliation Framework, require that member to resign.

Page 12, TITLE IV. MECHANISMS TO MONITOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE CONVENTION, CHAPTER II. CONCILIATION FRAMEWORK, Article 47:

A conciliation framework shall be established and shall include the Bureau of the National Assembly, the National Security Council and the Bureau of the Forum for the Negotiations on this Convention.

Page 12-13, TITLE V. FINAL PROVISIONS, Article 50.

The institutions established on the basis of consensus derive their legitimacy from this Convention. The signatories to this Convention pledge to ensure, jointly and severally, its protection and implementation. Failure to observe this Convention, duly verified by the National Assembly, the Framework for Concerted Action and the National Security Council, and after, conciliation, shall break the consensus and entail the immediate dissolution of all the institutions established on the basis of consensus.
