SECTION I: DEFINITIONS

I.1. Stakeholders: the signatories and nonsignatories to the Agreement of October 18, 2016, with their representatives (the Presidential Majority, Political Opposition and Civil Society signatories to the October 18 Agreement on the one hand, and the Rassemblement, the Front for the Respect of the Constitution and Civil Society nonsignatories to the Agreement on the other hand).

I.2. Preelection and election period: the time between the signature of this compromise and the actual installation of the institutions arising from the elections.

SECTION II: RESPECT FOR THE CONSTITUTION

The fundamental principles enacted by the stakeholders in their understanding of “respect for the Constitution” may essentially be summarized as follows:

II.1. The stakeholders undertake to respect the Constitution of February 18, 2006, as amended in 2011, and the laws of the Republic; and to organize presidential elections, national and provincial legislative elections and local elections in accordance with said Constitution. Notwithstanding the provisions of article 5(1), they agree not to undertake or support any initiative to revise or change the Constitution.

II.2. Regarding concerns about the third term for Joseph Kabila, President of the Republic, the stakeholders note the formal affirmation he made in the following terms before the Parliament sitting in Congress on November 15, 2016: “To everyone who seems to be concerned day in and day out about my political future, I would like to say—without neglecting to thank them—that the DRC is a constitutional democracy. All relevant issues about the fate of institutions and their leaders are adequately resolved by the Constitution.” Therefore, having completed two terms, he may not seek a third.

II.3. The parties formally agree to respect the institutions and laws of the Republic, the Rule of Law, Human Rights, fundamental collective and individual freedoms, the separation of powers guaranteed by the Constitution and the right of opposition parties to exist and engage in their political activities.

II.4. The parties renew their formal commitment to promote the independence of the judiciary; national cohesion; civil peace and democratic values, specifically, the democratic transfer of power resulting from credible, free, transparent and peaceful elections; national solidarity; political tolerance; the notion of compromise through dialogue; the equality of rights and opportunities; good governance; and accountability of leaders.

II.5. The parties agree to carry out in good faith this compromise and the recommendations made by the National Council for Overseeing the Electoral Agreement and Process (CNSA).

SECTION III: INSTITUTIONS AND THEIR FUNCTIONING DURING THE PREELECTION AND ELECTION PERIODS

III.1. Principles of governance

III.1.1. As part of their constitutional and legal prerogatives, the most important duties of the country's national and provincial institutions entail:

- ensuring the continuity of the government;
- organizing within the agreed-to time period presidential elections, national and provincial legislative elections, senate elections and the elections of the governors and vice governors of the provinces.

III.1.2. The deadline for completing the preelection and election procedures in accordance with the agreed-to sequence is 12 months as of the signature of this Agreement.

III.2. Institutions with an electoral mandate

III.2.1. President of the Republic

The stakeholders agree to abide by the Constitution of February 18, 2006, as revised in 2011, particularly the following provisions:

- Article 70(1), which states: "The President of the Republic is elected by universal, direct suffrage for a five-year term that may be renewed only once." It follows that any president who has served the second and last term may not seek a third term.
- The provisions of article 70(2), which state: "At the end of his term, the President of the Republic remains in office until the actual installation of the newly elected President." At the discretion of the Front for the Respect of the Constitution, it follows that even though he is at the end of his term, the President of the Republic shall remain in office until his elected successor is actually installed.

III.2.2. The National Assembly, Senate and Provincial Assemblies

Given that the terms of the provincial deputies and those of the senators ended in 2012, and that the term of the national deputies expires in February 2017, the stakeholders agree that:

- a) In accordance with articles 103(2), 105(2) and 197(6) of the Constitution, the national deputies, senators and provincial deputies in office remain in office until the actual installation of new corresponding legislative and deliberative assemblies chosen in the next elections to be held in accordance with the agreed-to schedule.
- b) Depending on the situation and in addition to their standard constitutional assignments, the National Assembly, Senate and provincial assemblies shall have as priority legislative agendas the full set of legislative regulations and measures to defuse political tensions.

- c) The stakeholders agree that the elected governors and vice governors remain in office in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution.

III.3. Institutions without an electoral mandate

III.3.1. In order to ensure institutional balance and guarantee equal treatment for everyone during the electoral process, the stakeholders agree that during the preelection and election periods, governance is inclusive at the national executive level. The practical procedures of this inclusive participation shall be determined through a special arrangement that is agreed to between the stakeholders and is an integral part of this Agreement.

- The Prime Minister exercises all the prerogatives attributed to him by the Constitution as the Head of the Government;
- The Government of the Republic is led by the Prime Minister, who is put forward by the Political Opposition that is not a signatory to the Agreement of October 18, 2016, or by Rassemblement, and is appointed by the President of the Republic in accordance with article 78 of the Constitution;
- The implementation of the principles set out above is determined through a special arrangement that is established between the stakeholders and is an integral part of the Agreement.

III.3.2. The stakeholders agree to assign to the Government of the Republic, following the example of the Institutions with an electoral mandate, the crucial duty to strive to organize credible, transparent and peaceful elections by the deadline set in item III.2 above.

SECTION IV: THE ELECTORAL PROCESS

IV.1. The stakeholders agree to a complete overhaul of the election roster and a bimonthly assessment of current voter registration procedures.

IV.2. The stakeholders agree to hold elections in a single presidential and national and provincial legislative sequence no later than December 2017.

IV.3. The stakeholders agree that CENI shall keep the National Assembly, National Council for Overseeing the Agreement and the other stakeholders in the electoral process duly informed of the time chart that will take into account the following preelection and election procedures:

- Completion of the creation of the consolidated election roster;
- Adoption of the law on the distribution of seats by electoral district and of the election law, and their enactment by the Head of State;
- Notice of elections by CENI;
- Organization of presidential and national and provincial legislative elections in a single sequence;
- Swearing-in and installation of the new President-elect of the Republic;
- Senate elections, elections of provincial governors and vice governors.

Local, town and city elections shall be held in 2018.

The stakeholders are thus requesting that CENI and the Government of the Republic take all the necessary measures for this purpose.

The stakeholders request that the Minister of the Interior revoke his decree no. 19/2015 of March 11, 2015, registering a political party called Mouvement de Libération du Congo Libéral (MLC/L).

The stakeholders also request that the Minister of the Interior revoke his decree no. 25/CAB/VPM/MININTER SEC/EB/001/2016 of January 23, 2016, registering a political party called Mouvement Social pour le Renouveau (MSR).

IV.4. Regarding the funding of elections and without affecting articles 6 and 52 of CENI's fundamental law, the stakeholders:

- recommend that the Government:
  - gather the internal and external resources required for the election budget and scrupulously abide by the disbursement plan agreed to with CENI, in accordance with the operational implementation plan;
  - set up a quarterly allowance for the benefit of CENI in accordance with its disbursement plan to fund the entire electoral process, including the protection of the process;
  - provide all the resources needed to fund the elections;
  - explore the processes and methods of rationalization of the electoral system in order to reduce the excessive election costs.

- encourage the International Community to support and help CENI logistically, financially and technically in order to properly carry out the electoral procedures.
- urge Parliament to conduct a quarterly audit on the use of the budgetary resources provided to CENI.
- require and diligently carry out an external audit on the management of CENI.
- require that CENI be transparent in the execution of contracts and encourage it to produce a logical budget for all preelection, election and postelection procedures in accordance with the option raised, and include with that budget a credible, realistic operational implementation plan.
- ask the National Council for Overseeing the Agreement (CSNA) to properly carry out its tasks and work with CENI and the Government to perform regular assessments of the electoral process.

IV.5. In order to guarantee CENI's independence and impartiality and regain the trust of all the election candidates, the parties agree that:

- a) CENI must be revitalized as soon as possible. For that purpose, the stakeholders charge the National Council for Overseeing the Agreement with recommending all the adjustments and measures to take regarding organic structures as well as the functioning of CENI, and the suitable mechanisms to put in place in order to reinforce its capabilities and the transparency of the preelection and election procedures;
- b) The Presidential Majority, the Political Opposition and Civil Society, from which the current members of CENI are drawn and which desire it, are free to replace their representatives in accordance with standard law within 14 days of the signature of this Agreement. The affected members shall tender their resignations as soon as the request is made to them by their original representatives.

IV.6. The stakeholders note the legal purpose of the term of the current members of the Superior Audiovisual and Communication Council (CSAC). They agree to the appointment of its new members within fourteen (14) days of the signature of this agreement, appointments that will abide by inclusivity and the fundamental law applying to its organization and functioning.

IV.7. Regarding the mechanism for securing the electoral process and following an overarching, in-depth diagnosis of the main issues and challenges in protecting the process, the parties recommend the following principal measures:

1. For the Government:

- a) Update decree no. 05/026 of May 6, 2005, finalizing the operational plan for securing the electoral process, and provide the Steering Committee with substantial resources to better carry out its duties;

- c) Ensure the implementation of the other relevant mechanisms of UN Security Council Resolution 2277.

6. For the Superior Audiovisual and Communication Council (CSAC):

- a) Ensure that all stakeholders get equal access to public media;
- b) Guarantee freedom of expression;
- c) Ensure that journalists, including correspondents of the foreign press operating in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, comply with the moral code and ethics of their profession;

- f) Observe the elections and report on them with impartiality;
- g) Compose objective analyses on all the election issues.

IV.8. Regarding the protection of persons and property

IV.8.1. Observations

The parties note that multiple threats influence the security of citizens throughout the country and may have a negative impact on citizens' abilities to exercise their voting rights. These threats include:

- a) local and foreign armed groups;
- b) the unmonitored proliferation and circulation of firearms;
- c) the persistence of urban crime and organized crime;

- i) the government's lack of authority;
- j) the porousness of the borders;
- k) poor handling of the migration issue;
- l) intercommunity mistrust, with a consequence of intercommunity conflicts in a number of provinces in the country.

IV.8.2. Recommendations

To resolve these problems and ensure the security of the citizens, the parties encourage the adoption of the following suitable measures:

IV.9. The stakeholders also agree to put in place a warning platform and platform for addressing security challenges, especially with regard to violations of human rights and fundamental freedoms during the political campaigns.

SECTION V: EASING OF POLITICAL TENSIONS

V.1. The stakeholders in this Agreement duly note the establishment of a Commission of Chief Justices for a meticulous, individualized examination of the cases of political prisoners and prisoners of conscience, the beneficiaries of the most recent amnesty law who nonetheless have not yet been released, and the cases of political exiles and refugees appearing on the attached list.

The parties have noted with satisfaction that the cases of Messrs Antipas Mbusa Nyamwisi, Roger Lumbala, Floribert Anzuluni and Moïse Moni Dela have already been processed by the aforementioned commission, which has already ruled to halt proceedings for the first three and to free the last.

The stakeholders request that the Commission of Chief Justices outright release Messrs Bagayamukwe and Mbonekube as they have already been pardoned regarding the reasons for their respective judgments of culpability.

Concerning the case of Eugene Diomi Ndongala, the stakeholders request that CENCO take action to achieve a suitable, satisfactory solution.

The stakeholders request that the Commission of Chief Justices postpone ruling on the cases of Messrs Moïse Katumbi and Jean-Claude Muyambo, which they state are entrusted to CENCO as part of the continuation of its good offices, in order to take steps and contact the relevant authorities so as to achieve a suitable, satisfactory solution.

In addition, there are the political figures prosecuted after the September 19, 2016, demonstrations and the youths from Lucha and Filimbi who were arrested on the day the efforts under the auspices of CENCO started, and all the people who were arrested and/or prosecuted around the country during the events of September 19 and December 19 and 20, 2016.

The stakeholders agree to stop unjustified legal proceedings due to tax harassment against some members of the Opposition.

In the greater national interest, the stakeholders are tasking CENCO with continuing its good offices with regard to all the relevant authorities for the follow-up on and actual resolution of remaining illustrative cases, namely, those of Moïse Katumbi and Jean-Claude Muyambo, in order for them to regain their freedom.

The stakeholders agree that the government of the Republic shall immediately continue the measures to defuse political tensions and will concurrently begin to take steps with the relevant foreign governments and international organizations in order to achieve the lifting of sanctions that were imposed against some Congolese.

V.2. Within 15 days of the signature of this Agreement, the Minister in charge of the media shall make sure to restore the signal of the audiovisual companies that were closed or barred as a precautionary measure or for noncompliance with the law.

V.3. The stakeholders agree to guarantee equal access to public media to all political movements, specifically, by setting, in cooperation with the CSAC, a regulated airtime and by instituting in the program schedule of this media the right of reply to the Government, in accordance with article 14 of the law on the status of the Opposition in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

V.4. The stakeholders request that the Minister in charge of the interior and public safety refrain from meddling in any way and from arbitrating the internal conflicts of political parties that fall under the jurisdiction of the courts, and that he instruct the regional authorities to avoid all hindrances to the activities of political organizations (parties and platforms) in their respective jurisdictions.

V.5. Within the context of reinforcing national unity and solidarity, the stakeholders request that the government of the Republic examine the possibility of granting fixed and equal aid to the victims of the bloody events of September 19 and 20 and December 19 and 20, 2016, and to the political parties whose headquarters were set on fire on those occasions.

V.6. The stakeholders agree to perform any other actions necessary to restoring trust within the DRC, including combining their efforts in order to maintain peace and continue to bolster national agreement and to bar any behavior and words that are incompatible with peace.
